- A new and entirely updated edition taking into account the prominence of this issue in the news and the challenges to European open borders (the Schengen Agreement)
- A major graphic recasting

This politically engaged atlas seeks to use maps and charts to bring out the inconsistencies and global negative consequences of how the question of immigration is posed by the European Union. The 2012 edition surveys the situation and analyses the most recent events: the uptick in migration in the wake of the Arab Spring, the agreements between Italy and Libya, reinforced border controls, the closing of detention camps, etc.

By Réseau MIGREUOP (a network of 39 groups,), edited by Olivier Clochard, geography professor at the University of Paris-8, and, among others, K. Dorai, research director at the CNRS/ADES Bordeaux III, and A. Pecoud, researcher at MIGRINTER (Poitiers) and Unesco.
